

Soc 308: Judicial System & African Amer Community

SOCIOLOGY & ANTHROPOLOGY

This course is an examination of the historical and contemporary relationships and interactions between the black population and the legal system in America. Concepts covered will include considerations of definitions of criminal conduct, societal responses to minority pressures and demands for justice, as well as intergroup relations between nondominant ethnic groups and enforcement components of society.

3 Credits

Cross-listed Courses

- Aas 302: Law & the African American Community

Subject Areas

- Social Sciences, General

Related Areas

- Research Methodology and Quantitative Methods

