

His 340: Science in the Modern World ARCH DALRYMPLE III DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

The course examines how science and technology became the defining features of the modern world, and how in turn the conditions of modern life have shaped our views of the natural world.

3 Credits

Prerequisites

- Pre-Requisite: 24 Earned Hours

Instruction Type(s)

- Lecture: Lecture for His 340

Subject Areas

- History and Philosophy of Science and Technology

Related Areas

- American History United States
- Asian History
- European History
- History, General
- History, Other

